Tales of Crusading Vikings

Jarl Sigfrid I, the Unlucky, of Jordik; Son of Jarl Haldan I, Whiteshirt

Jarl Sigfrid was a reckless ruler

He would charge into battle ahead of his men

He was a member of the Wolf Warriors

But would duel far better duelists...

and lose...

repeatedly

He would constantly get into dangerous situations and fail...

and over

It was almost as if he was compelled by some greater force

King Halfdan II, the Warrior Philosopher, of Jordvik; Son of Jarl Sigfrid I

King Sigfrid I, the Mud-Warrior, of Jorvik; Son of King Haldan II

Empepor Halfdan, the Castellan, of Britannia; Son of King Sumarlidi

Emepepor Halfdan's first greatest achievement was getting the title of the Castellan

He would also build the Great Shield of Jorvik, the greatest defensive structure ever built

Emperor Haldan, the Apostle, of Britannia; Again!

Emperor Porbjörn, the Hammer, of Britannia; Son of Ate

After being elected, Emperor Porbjörn decided he would strengthen his legitimacy by marrying the sister of the previous ruler and restoring their bloodline

The problem was that she had been married off to some guy in the Byzantine Empire

So he sent his spymaster and had him assassinated. But...

He forgot he was still married. After his divorce...

He found out she had remarried

One extra dead husband later...

He was finally able to marry her

I hope all this effort pays out

I hope this one lasts longer than the others

Emperor Arni of Britannia; Son of Emperor Gunnarr II

Emperor Arni had a rough time handling the Pope

The first time he was excommunicated, the Pope asked him for money

Eh! Eh!
Give me money!

The second time, the Pope would only lift the excommunication if Arni fought another excommunicated ruler

Dance for me monkey!

Despite his grivances with the Pope, Emperor Arni was still a faithfull man. Therefore, he accepted the Pope's request Who's a good boy? Yes you are!

However, with the expansion of Britannnia, the other christian rulers had formed a defensive pact

The pact has been called upon

Wasn't this war called by the Pope?

Don't care

And thus began the first large scale conflict in Europe

YOU HAPPY NOW?

Why is everyone mad at me?

Emperor Lelouch, the Crusader, of Britannia; Son of Emperor Gunnarr III
